FA0006	Advanced Combative Pistol (080706) Course is designed to introduce the combative fundamentals with the service pistol to the individual by habituating correct technique through our unique approach of static then dynamic training. A large majority of this program is shot while moving either aggressing a target or moving towards cover or similar concept. It is structured to use extended range sessions to reinforce proper technique and conditioned responses. The methodology of our programs is to introduce, develop then refine training techniques through repetition and accountability. The individual will perfect the necessary foundational skills to achieve combat accuracy, tactical proficiency and performance consistency ultimately while on the move.	Course is based off of our saturation training theory, which uses “zero defects mechanics” to master the current skill before moving to the next skill level. The individual is held accountable through performance standards that are graded evolutions which emphasize the combination of accuracy and speed. The various drills become progressively more challenging forcing the individual to continually improve by refining their own technique. Minimum passing score is an 80% or better on the final performance standards test. www.tridentconcepts.com/index.aspx?page=ACP&amp;leftm=weapon	30 hours	Trident Concepts

LS0003	Tactical Emergency Medical Technician (031808)	In today's increasingly violent world, the embedded Tactical-Emergency Medical Technician is becoming a critical component for the cutting edge Special Response Team. The ability to provide quality, on-scene, immediate medical care to the critically wounded, whether those wounded are victims of the incident itself or fellow team members, is the wave of the future. Standard EMT curriculum provides the basics but falls short of providing the knowledge needed to provide care under the extremely stressful conditions of the Special Response Team mission. The Tactical Solutions Group, Inc., T-EMT course provides the training necessary to fill the gap between the basic EMT curriculum and the Tactical Operator. Mitigating factors such as darkness, hostile fire, resource limitations, prolonged evacuation times, unique battlefield casualty evacuation issues, command and tactical decisions affecting healthcare, hostile environments, and provider experience levels pose constraints different from the hospital emergency department. These differences are profound, and must be carefully reviewed when trauma management strategies are modified for combat application. Through the use of knowledgeable Instructors with real-world hands-on experience,	45 hours	Tactical Solutions invigorating lectures, and stress induced practical exercises the student will graduate the T-EMT Course with the ability to support the Special Operations Team before, during and after a violent encounter.
